Plaintiffs Estelle Weber, Anthony Pisano, Ira Gewirtz, Rita Rusin and Lawrence Fink (“Weber Plaintiffs” or “Plaintiffs”),¹ respectfully submit this memorandum in opposition to the competing motions of Plaintiffs Aaron Howard and Shelden Greenberg (“Howard Plaintiffs”) and Plaintiff Drew W. Lounsbury (“Lounsbury”) for the appointment of interim lead plaintiffs, co-lead counsel and related relief, and in further support of their motion for entry of [Proposed] Pretrial Order No.1 (a) consolidating the above-captioned actions arising under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (“ERISA”), 29 U.S.C. §§502(a)(2) and (3), and §§1132(a)(2) and (3); (b) appointing the Weber Plaintiffs as Interim Co-Lead Plaintiffs on behalf of a proposed class of participants and beneficiaries of the Bear Stearns Companies Inc. Employees Stock Ownership Plan (“Bear Stearns ESOP” or “Plan”) (the “Class”); and (c) appointing the firms of Wolf Popper LLP (“Wolf Popper”) and Hagens Berman Sobol Shapiro LLP (“Hagens Berman”) as Interim Co-Lead Counsel.²

I. PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

All movants concur that these actions are appropriate for consolidation under Fed. R. Civ. P. 42(a). However, appointment of interim co-lead plaintiffs and co-lead counsel is subject to competing motions filed by the Howard Plaintiffs and by Plaintiff Lounsbury.

There is no dispute, however, that both the Weber Plaintiffs’ counsel, and the Howard Plaintiffs’ counsel, are highly experienced in cases such as the instant litigation, and that either set of counsel would do an excellent job in prosecuting the consolidated action. Plaintiff Lounsbury is also represented by fine attorneys, although Lounsbury’s counsel appears to lack the resources possessed by counsel for the Weber Plaintiffs and the Howard Plaintiffs, as noted below.

² The Weber Plaintiffs filed their motion on March 28, 2008. The Howard Plaintiffs filed their motion, brief (“Howard Br.”), and supporting papers on April 8, 2008, and Plaintiff Lounsbury filed his motion, brief (“Lounsbury Br.”), and supporting papers on April 10, 2008.

Other factors relevant to the Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(g) inquiry support the appointment of the Weber Plaintiffs' leadership structure in this case. As set forth below, the Weber Plaintiffs' proposed leadership structure has the support of the plurality, or majority, of the plaintiffs in the above-captioned cases.³ Moreover, as detailed below, the Weber Plaintiffs collectively held over 5,500 shares of Company stock in the ESOP during the proposed class period. The value of these shares was decimated as a result of defendants' alleged wrongdoing and breaches of fiduciary duty set forth in Weber Plaintiffs' complaints, with estimated losses of well over $800,000. Accordingly, the Weber Plaintiffs are highly motivated to prosecute this case for the benefit of the Class and the Plan.

The Howard Plaintiffs' proposed structure is disfavored as it requires the addition of liaison counsel, because their proposed co-lead counsel are both from outside New York State. Such a structure would invariably lead to more lawyer time spent in the case and more expenses. Appointing lead counsel with no presence in New York (requiring the presence of a third firm to serve as liaison counsel) and without the support of the majority of the plaintiffs, does not achieve efficiency and economy without jeopardizing fairness to parties.⁴

Weber Plaintiffs' counsel are seasoned litigators, and the senior partners in charge of this case have over 35 and 28 years of experience, respectively, in litigating some of the most complex class actions in this and other Districts. Their record and reputation are beyond question. Moreover, they have done the most work in advancing the claims of the Class in this litigation, and represent the movants with the most significant financial interests in the outcome of this litigation. Finally, the Weber Plaintiffs' counsel have unparalleled experience in taking

³ As far as Weber Plaintiffs' counsel are aware, there are ten named plaintiffs who have filed complaints in these related ERIA actions to date. Of these, six (including movants) support the Weber Plaintiffs' proposed leadership structure.

class action cases to trial and to judgment, if necessary. This additional experience redounds to the benefit of the proposed Class.

II. ARGUMENT

A. The Weber Plaintiffs Should Be Appointed Interim Lead Plaintiffs

1. The Weber Plaintiffs Have a Significant Interest in The Outcome Of This Litigation

The Weber Plaintiffs have a significant financial interest in the outcome of this litigation which favors their appointment as interim lead plaintiffs.⁵

The Weber Plaintiffs collectively held over 5,500 shares of Company stock in their ESOP Plan accounts, and the shares were a significant portion of their retirement savings.⁶ Together, the Weber Plaintiffs lost well over $800,000 of their retirement savings as a result of the ESOP

⁵ Although there are few decisions citing factors for appointment of interim lead plaintiffs in ERISA cases, claims on behalf of a plan under ERISA are most akin to a derivative case brought on behalf of a corporation, where many federal courts have found the size of the applicants' financial interest as a relevant factor in determining the appointment of lead plaintiffs. See, e.g., In re Conseco, Inc. Sec. Litig., 120 F. Supp. 2d 729, 734 (S.D. Ind. 2000) (holding that there is a presumption in favor of appointing "[plaintiffs] with very large stock holdings" in a derivative action); see also Dollens v. Zions, Nos. 01 C 5931, 01 C 2826, 2001 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 19966, at *17-18 (N.D. Ill. Dec. 4, 2001) (taking into account the holdings of the various plaintiffs in appointing lead plaintiff in a derivative action); cf. Millman v. Brinkley, Nos. 1:03-CV-3831-WSD, 1:03-CV-3832-WSD, 1:03-CV-0058-WSD, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 20113, at *10-11 (N.D. Ga. Oct. 1, 2004) (on motion to appoint lead plaintiffs and counsel in derivative case, court held that plaintiffs who "have continuously held" their stock during relevant time period "weighs in favor of Plaintiffs ... capacity to better represent the interests of the shareholders" of the company); In re Comverse Technology, Inc. Deriv. Litig., 06-CV-1849 (NGG)(RER), 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 88261, at *12 (E.D.N.Y. Dec. 6, 2006) (holding that "the largest financial interest" is "relevant," albeit "when all things are otherwise equal."). Like federal courts, state courts also emphasize the size of an applicant's financial interest in the litigation in selecting derivative lead plaintiffs. See Hirt v. U.S. Timberlands Serv. Co., LLC, C.A. Nos. 19575, 19577, 19578, 19584, 19592, 19608, 19613, 19632, 2002 Del. Ch. LEXIS 89, at *5 (Del. Ch. July 3, 2002) ("the relative economic stakes of the competing litigants in the outcome of the lawsuit" are "to be accorded 'great weight'") (quoting TCW Tech. Ltd. P'ship v. Intermedia Commc'ns, Inc., C.A. Nos. 18336, 18289, 18293, 2000 WL 1654504, at *4 (Del. Ch. Oct. 17, 2000)).

Plan's investment in Company stock.⁷ It is thus fair to say that the Weber Plaintiffs are highly motivated, and have a sufficient interest in the outcome of the case to ensure vigorous advocacy. Cf. 15 U.S.C. § 78u-4(a)(3)(B)(iii)(I) (lead plaintiff appointment provisions of Private Securities Litigation Reform Act ("PSLRA")).⁸ In contrast, Plaintiff Lounsbury had "approximately $7,500" invested in the ESOP during the Class Period – or fewer than 50 shares.⁹ The Howard Plaintiffs' papers are silent on this point.

2, The Appointment Of More Than One Interim Lead Plaintiff Will Serve to Protect the Interests of the Entire Class

The Weber Plaintiffs further submit that having more than one lead plaintiff provides better protection to the Class. Numerous courts have recognized both the procedural and substantive benefits that a co-lead plaintiff structure provides in class-wide litigation. Case law in this very District has held that a "[co-lead plaintiff] structure provides flexibility and stability to the class if presented with the situation that either co-lead plaintiff fails to address certain interests within the class, drops out of the action or compromises the class in some fashion." Malasky v. IAC/InteractiveCorp., No. 04-7447, 2004 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 25832, at *14 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 20, 2004); see also Pirelli Armstrong Tire Corp. Retiree Med. Benefits Trust v. LaBranche & Co., Nos. 03 Civ. 8264, 03 Civ. 8521, 03 Civ. 8935, 03 Civ. 9968, 04 Civ. 2038, 2004 U.S.

Dist. LEXIS 9571, at *82-83 (S.D.N.Y. May 27, 2004) (Sweet., J.) (noting that the creation of a co-lead plaintiff structure provides greater stability in the action should a decision later be reached that either co-lead plaintiff cannot adequately represent the class).

Plaintiff Lounsbury seeks appointment of only one interim lead plaintiff. If only one lead plaintiff is appointed, and if he were to subsequently drop out of the action for whatever reason, this would undermine the efficient and orderly conduct of the proceedings, resulting in additional costs to the litigants as well as the loss of time and judicial resources. The entire process for appointment of a lead plaintiff(s) and/or lead counsel would have to be started anew, significantly delaying resolution of the Plan participants' claims.

Plaintiff Lounsbury claims that he is unique because he does not recall signing a release upon leaving his employment with Bear Stearns. He is not unique. Plaintiff Weber is still employed with Bear Stearns, and has not received any type of severance package or any indication that her employment was in jeopardy. Most of the other Weber Plaintiffs do not recall executing any releases with respect to their employment with Bear Stearns. Ira Gerwitz believes he signed some sort of document releasing certain claims against Bear Stearns, but cannot recall the exact terms of that document. But Mr. Gerwitz left his employment with Bear Stearns in 2004, well before the events at issue in this litigation. To the extent that some Class members have signed (or may yet sign) releases, the Weber Plaintiffs do not plan to simply exclude them from the Class. To the contrary, they will attack the validity of any such release – just as their counsel has successfully done in the past. See Nelson v. IPALCO Enters., No. IP02-0477-C-H/K, 2005 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16909, *13-12 (S.D. Ind. Aug. 11, 2006) (granting summary judgment for plaintiffs on release defense).

The stake, diversity and number of Weber Plaintiffs will be a benefit to the entire Class of Plan participants.

B. The Weber Plaintiffs' Counsel Should Be Appointed Co-Lead Counsel

The criteria of Rule 23(g)(1)(A) have been set forth in the Weber Plaintiffs' Moving Brief, pp. 5-6. In addition, Rule 23(g)(1)(B) "invites the court to consider any other pertinent factors." As made clear by the Advisory Committee Notes to Rule 23(g), courts and commentators, "[n]o single factor is dispositive in evaluating prospective class counsel." Manual for Complex Litigation (Fourth) ("Manual") § 21.271 (2004) (Criteria for Appointment); In re J.P. Morgan Chase Cash Balance Litig., 242 F.R.D. 265, 277 (S.D.N.Y. 2007) (citing § 21.271 of the Manual and holding "No single factor is dispositive"). See also Advisory Committee Notes to Rule 23(g), 2003 Amendments, Paragraph 1(C) ("In evaluating prospective class counsel, the court should weigh all pertinent factors. No single factor should necessarily be determinative in a given case."). Thus, the Advisory Committee Notes emphasize that courts should avoid appointment of class counsel by means of a rote quantitative comparison of a single factor such as ERISA experience measured by the number of cases litigated, where other experienced and able counsel may best serve the class' interests as a whole, as set forth below.

1. Both the Weber Plaintiffs' and Howard Plaintiffs' Counsel Have Substantial Experience in Class Actions, ERISA Actions and Other Complex Litigation, and Have the Requisite Resources to Prosecute This Action, Although the Weber Plaintiffs' Class Action Trial Experience Is Unparalleled

There is no question that both Howard Plaintiffs' counsel, and Weber Plaintiffs' counsel, have substantial experience in "handling class actions, other complex litigation, and the types of claims asserted in the action," Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(g)(1)(A)(ii), as well as ample resources to prosecute this litigation. Weber Plaintiffs' counsel, Hagens Berman, is a 41-lawyer firm focused almost exclusively on representing plaintiffs in class action cases around the country. Weber Plaintiffs' counsel, Wolf Popper, is a prestigious law firm focused on the same type of litigation, with over 60 years of experience, whose reputation and success in prosecuting complex securities and ERISA actions are well known to this Court.

Hagens Berman has served as lead or co-lead counsel in a number of ERISA class action cases on behalf of current and former employees suing for losses suffered to company stock in their retirement Plan accounts.¹⁰ The firm has obtained many favorable ERISA rulings,¹¹ and substantial settlements,¹² and has litigated several ERISA cases through the summary judgment stage and one case through trial.

In addition, Hagens Berman has unparalleled experience in actual trials of MDL and other class action cases.¹³ While Howard Plaintiffs' counsel are fine attorneys with great Mich.); Touch America Holdings, Inc., No. CV-02-106-BU-SHE (D. Mont.), IPALCO Enterprises et al., Case No. IP 02-0477-C-H/K (S.D. Ind.); United Airlines, No. 03 C 1537 (C.D. ¹² See Declaration of Steve W. Berman in Support of Weber Plaintiffs' Motion for (1) Consolidation, (2) Appointment of Lead Plaintiffs and Leadership Structure, and (3) Entry of [Proposed] Pretrial Order No. 1, at ¶ 6-7.

¹³ Hagens Berman has been lead or co-lead counsel in the following class action cases that went to trial: In re Pharmaceutical Indus. Average Wholesale Price Litig. MDL No. 1456 (D. Mass) (judgment against two defendants after trial); In re Visa Check/MasterMoney Antitrust Litig., CV-96-5238 (E.D.N.Y.) (settled on eve of trial for over $3 billion in cash and over $20 billion in injunctive relief); In Re: Disposable Contact Lens Antitrust Litigation, MDL No. 1030 (M.D. Fla.) (settled during trial); Hankin, et. al. v. City of Seattle, 00-1672P (W.D. Wash.) (settled after judgment for Plaintiffs after trial); In re Burlington Northern & Santa Fe Railway Co. Employee Settlement Agreements Litigation, MDL Docket No. 1418 (W.D. Wash.) (partial settlement and then judgment for remaining defendants after trial). See also In re Boeing Sec. Litig., C-97-1715-TSZ (W.D. Wash. 2001) (co-lead counsel in case resulting in $92.5 million settlement on behalf of Boeing stockholders); In re Dynamic Random Access Memory Antitrust Litigation ("DRAM") (Hagens Berman, as co-lead counsel, organized and supervised scores of co-counsel, wrote and oversaw all briefing (including class certification, summary judgment, and trial briefs), coordinated with counsel for indirect purchaser class, took or supervised the taking of over 100 depositions (foreign and domestic), and negotiated over $320 million in settlements for the class).

experience in the pretrial phases of ERISA litigation, neither Howard Plaintiffs' counsel nor Plaintiff Lounsbury's counsel have Weber Plaintiffs' Counsel's class action trial experience.

Hagens Berman's efforts in this case are headed by Steve W. Berman. Mr. Berman has served as lead or co-lead counsel in ERISA, securities, consumer, products liability, antitrust, employment class actions, and complex litigations throughout the country. Mr. Berman's successes include obtaining a settlement of $92.5 million in the Boeing Securities Litigation, representing stock and bondholders in the Bonneville Pacific Securities Litigation which resulted in settlements exceeding $30 million, and gaining approval of a $290 million settlement in the Louisiana Pacific Siding Litigation, the largest product liability settlement ever obtained in the Pacific Northwest.

Perhaps most notable is Mr. Berman's role as a special assistant attorney general for the states of Washington, Arizona, Illinois, Indiana, New York, Alaska, Idaho, Ohio, Oregon, Nevada, Montana, Vermont, and Rhode Island in the historic tobacco litigation. The announcement of the final settlement found Mr. Berman in his ninth week of trial presenting the state of Washington's case to a jury.

Recently, Mr. Berman headed up the trial team that achieved a landmark victory in a prescription drug lawsuit. In a decision handed down on June 21, 2007, Judge Patti Saris of the U.S. District Court for the District of Massachusetts found after a four week bench trial that three major companies violated the Massachusetts consumer protecting act by reporting false "Average Wholesale Prices" for a number of prescription drugs. The "Average Wholesale Price," or AWP, is a benchmark figure reported by drug manufacturers to commercial publications that publish compendia of prescription drug prices. Health plans, government health programs such as Medicaid and other "third party payors" use these AWP figures to determine how much to pay doctors and pharmacies for drugs which are given to their members and insureds. The June 21, 2007 ruling is part of a much larger and ongoing case challenging the nationwide use of AWP on behalf of consumers, States and third-party payors.

In April 2000, the National Law Journal listed Mr. Berman as the top litigator in the state and, in June 2000, named him as one of the 100 most powerful lawyers in the nation. In January 2001, Seattle Magazine featured him in an issue profiling the top lawyers in Seattle. In June 2006, the National Law Journal once again named Mr. Berman as one of the nation's 100 most influential lawyers in America. Mr. Berman was also named as a finalist for the Trial Lawyer of the Year award for 2006 by The Trial Lawyers for Public Justice.

Similarly, Wolf Popper is also an acknowledged leader in the field of complex class action litigation, securities, and ERISA litigation. Recently, Wolf Popper represented the State of New Jersey, Division of Investment, in recovering in excess of $190 million in a large, complex securities class action against Motorola, Inc., three business days before the beginning of trial. Also recently, Wolf Popper has prosecuted, as interim co-lead counsel, In re AIG ERISA Litigation, Master File No. 04-CV-9387 (JES) (S.D.N.Y.), relating to various accounting improprieties and bid rigging allegations at AIG which led to the ouster of its longtime Chairman Maurice Greenberg.¹⁴ Wolf Popper was also recently appointed interim co-lead counsel by Judge Sidney Stein in Gray v. Citigroup, Inc., Case No. 07-CV-9790 (S.D.N.Y.) (SHS) (DCF), a consolidated ERISA class action on behalf of participants and beneficiaries of certain of Citigroup's retirement plans. In appointing Wolf Popper as co-lead counsel over competing groups of movants, including Plaintiff Lounsbury's Counsel, Judge Stein stated that "applying each of the four factors in Rule 23(g)(1)(A)... I think the group most able to represent the plaintiffs as interim lead counsel will be Wolf Popper and Harwood Feffer" and that they "...have the deeper experience overall." Moreover, insofar as the crux of this litigation will involve breaches of fiduciary duty, and Bear Stearns's underlying financial and accounting fraud, ¹⁴ In AIG, Judge Sprizzo appointed Wolf Popper, Keller Rohrback, and two other firms as a "provisional" committee of four firms to prosecute the action (i.e., the functional equivalent of "interim" counsel), which they have done over the last four years.

Wolf Popper has been renowned for decades for its expertise in breach of fiduciary duty, and financial fraud cases.¹⁵

Wolf Popper's efforts in this case will be headed by Lester L. Levy. Mr. Levy is the Chairman and Managing Partner of Wolf Popper LLP. He has prosecuted hundreds of class actions and has recovered over one billion dollars for the class members he has represented. He is a recognized expert in the specialized field of complex class action litigation and has lectured in complex litigation at the University of Illinois and the University of Miami Law Schools. Mr. Levy's experience includes acting as co-lead counsel in a major securities fraud action against Deutsche Bank, A.G. and its senior officer, before Judge Koeltl. The $58 million recovery, obtained on the eve of trial, was equivalent to approximately 48% of the class' maximum possible recovery, and approximately 96% of the class' most likely recovery.

Recently, Mr. Levy headed the nation-wide securities class action against Motorola, Inc. On the eve of trial, the defendants paid $190,000,000 to the class to resolve the federal securities litigation. In approving the $190,000,000 recovery for the Class, the Court stated, "You did a great very professional job here. This was a hard fought, but extremely professionally fought battle and I appreciate it. Thank you." Mr. Levy was also recently in charge of the team of lawyers that prosecuted In re Coordinated Title Insurance Cases. The presiding Justice commented, in approving the settlement on July 29, 2005, that the prosecution by the Firm "was lawyering of the highest quality."¹⁶

In 2007, Mr. Levy was selected as one of New York "Super Lawyers"®. This selection (according to Super Lawyers) represents the top 5% of attorneys practicing in New York City.

¹⁶ Mr. Levy was plaintiffs' co-lead counsel in Seidman v. Stauffer Chemical Co., (D. Conn.) where at the successful conclusion of the case, Chief Judge Daly remarked that plaintiffs' co-lead counsel had acted throughout the litigation "...in accord with the highest standards of the bar, and it was a pleasure to deal with you and to listen to you, and to review your work..."

Further, Weber Plaintiffs' counsel have each financed large class action litigations¹⁷ and have the necessary and proven resources to finance this litigation.¹⁸

Insofar as both the Weber and Howard Plaintiffs' counsel are highly experienced and no doubt will do an excellent job on behalf for the Class and the Plan, the Court should look to other factors in determining the appointment of interim counsel under Rule 23(g).

2. The Weber Plaintiffs' Counsel Have Already Undertaken Substantial Work in Investigating and Pursuing the Claims of the Class

The first factor under Rule 23(g)(A)(ii), which focuses on the work counsel has done to advance the litigation, see, e.g., Bynum v. Gov't of the Dist. of Columbia, 384 F. Supp. 2d 342, 345 (D.D.C. 2005), favors Weber Plaintiffs' counsel. Weber Plaintiffs' counsel have been diligent in identifying, investigating and prosecuting the claims in this action.

The Weber Plaintiffs' counsel drafted their complaints after an extensive factual investigation. The firms coupled their factual investigation with their extensive knowledge of the law of ERISA, taking into account the ongoing development of the law in this area.¹⁹

¹⁷ For example, in the Motorola case discussed above, Wolf Popper recently deployed extensive resources to review millions of pages of documents, take depositions and marshal evidence, up to the eve of trial, and Wolf Popper is currently handling a document production in the tens of millions of pages in Stumpf v. Neil R. Garvey, et al. (In re Tycom Ltd. Securities Litig.), Docket No. 03-CV-1352 (D.N.H.), a federal securities class action on behalf of purchasers of Tycom Ltd. stock, against Tyco International Ltd., Tycom Ltd., and Dennis Kozlowski, now concluding discovery, which documents are maintained electronically on a database managed by the firm's IT staff and paralegals. Hagens Berman likewise has substantial resources. As set forth above, Hagens Berman has taken a leading role among plaintiffs' firms in pursuing employee lawsuits and ERISA violations on behalf of participants and beneficiaries in employer-sponsored benefit plans, having served or currently serving as lead or co-lead counsel in many ERISA class actions. In appointing Hagens Berman to these lead positions, courts have, of necessity, recognized that the firm has sufficient resources to prosecute these actions.

Since filing the Weber complaint on March 18, 2008, Weber Plaintiffs' counsel have dedicated substantial resources to advancing the case's prosecution for the benefit of the Class. For example, Weber Plaintiffs' Counsel has:

- retained the services of a Washington, D.C. firm who has been actively monitoring the Congressional investigations into the collapse of Bear Stearns. This same firm -- Cuneo Gilbert & LaDuca, LLP -- was involved in the same capacity in the Enron ERISA Litigation, and the fruits from that Congressional investigation were invaluable to the prosecution of the Enron ERISA case;
- requested Plan documents from Bear Stearns under ERISA §104(b) prior to Howard Plaintiff's counsel (see Ex. A attached to the Declaration of Lester L. Levy, filed herewith ("Levy Opp. Decl."));
- negotiated with, procured a commitment from Bear Stearns' counsel to produce, and already received certain Plan documents under ERISA §104(b) (id.);
- sent a document preservation letter to Defendants (again prior to Howard Plaintiff's counsel) (see Ex. B attached to the Levy Opp. Decl.);
- procured Defendants' counsel's response, by letter dated March 27, 2008, confirming their preservation of documents and data; (see Ex. C attached to the Levy Opp. Decl.);
- sent a FOIA request to the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") (and already received a letter from the SEC stating that it assigned a research specialist to the FOIA request) (see Ex. D attached to the Levy Opp. Decl.); plaintiff Weber nor her counsel reviewed the Howard Complaint before she filed her complaint, let alone track any of its allegations. See Levy Opp. Decl. ¶ 3. Similarly, Anthony Pisano filed his complaint on March 24, 2008, almost two weeks before Plaintiff Sheldon Greenberg filed his complaint on April 3, 2008.

- sent a FOIA request to the Department of Labor (and the Department of Labor already indicated that it would produce documents in response to that request on or about April 18, 2008) (see Ex. E attached to the Levy Opp. Decl.);
- communicated with a number of aggrieved Plan participants; and conducted further factual research in preparation for drafting the consolidated complaint; and
- filed complaints on behalf of five clients, including the Weber Plaintiffs. Wolf Popper and Hagens Berman's clients, who suffered significant losses as a result of their investments in the Plan, are actively participating in this litigation, and are willing and able to serve as lead plaintiffs at the class certification stage of this litigation.

The Weber Plaintiffs' Counsel have undertaken substantial work in investigating and pursuing claims for the Class, and have invested substantial resources in the prosecution of this litigation.²⁰ Accordingly, the Weber Plaintiffs' counsel are the preferred interim Class counsel under this critical factor. See Rule 23(g)(1)(C)(i).

²⁰ It is curious that Howard Plaintiffs' Counsel believes that they should be afforded credit for notifying the Court that the ERISA actions should not be consolidated with the related securities or derivative cases. Bear Stearns' March 26, 2008, letter to the Court did not request that the ERISA cases be consolidated with the securities and derivative cases. In fact, the letter did not even request that any of the cases be consolidated. Defendants merely requested that the ERISA, securities, and derivative cases be assigned to Judge Sweet "in the interest of judicial efficiency and coordination" because the related cases were, at the time, assigned to either Judge Sweet, Judge Marrero, or Judge Pauley. Accordingly, the Weber Plaintiffs agreed to Bear Stearns' request, with no additional commentary, because there was no reason to believe that the Court did not understand the difference between consolidating cases and coordinating cases. The Weber Plaintiffs filed their motion requesting the consolidation of the ERISA cases (and not the related securities or derivative cases) on March 28, 2008, two days after the Court received Bear Stearns' letter (the Defendants have since filed a response supporting the consolidation of the ERISA cases).

Also, although Plaintiff Lounsbury highlights his allegation that the members of the Finance and Risk Committee were responsible for overseeing the Plan, the language relied on in the Lounsbury Complaint does not appear to indicate that they have such responsibilities. See Lounsbury Complaint ¶¶13-19.

3. The Howard Plaintiffs' Proposed Structure Is Inefficient as Compared to the Weber Plaintiffs' Proposed Structure

The Schiffrin firm is based in Radnor, PA. Keller Rohrback is based in Seattle, WA. Since the Howard Plaintiffs' two proposed co-lead firms are both located outside of New York State, they are proposing a leadership group that includes a third firm, Dealy & Silberstein ("Dealy"), as liaison counsel. Adding a third law firm to the proposed leadership structure is contrary to the Manual for Complex Litigation which underscores that "[t]he most important factor [in selecting lead counsel] is 'achieving efficiency and economy without jeopardizing fairness to the parties.'" (Howard Br. at 9), citing Manual, at §10.211.) In contrast, Wolf Popper is located in New York, with easy access to Bear Stearns' (and its acquirer's, JPMorgan Chase & Co. ("JPMorgan")) headquarters, as well as the Court, and provides assurance that at least one of the co-lead firms can appear before the Court on a moment's notice. The Weber Plaintiffs' proposed two-firm structure will also be more efficient in that it will mean less lawyer hours and less duplication to be borne by the Class, than the three-law-firm structure required to be used by the Howard Plaintiffs.

Further, the cost of Schiffrin and Keller's time and travel to hearings in this litigation will be significant. The overwhelming number of Bear Stearns employee and third-party witness depositions are expected to be in New York, since the headquarters of Bear Stearns and JPMorgan are in New York, as are defendants' counsel. To the extent that Schiffrin and Keller are the only co-lead firms proposed, they will have to travel to the numerous depositions, hearings and meetings expected to take place in New York in this vast litigation, which will be inefficient and costly. See In re Tyco Int'l, Ltd. Sec. Litig., MDL No. 02-1335-B (D.N.H. Dec. 18, 2002) (factor which helped "tip the balance" in favor of appointment of certain counsel in charge of the ERISA cases was "the advantage of proximity to both this court and the litigation's likely center of gravity in New York.") (See Ex. D attached to the Levy Decl.).

4. The Fact That Weber Plaintiffs' Counsel Have the Support of Numerous Plaintiffs Favors the Appointment of Weber Counsel

Although the Howard Plaintiffs argue that the Court cannot properly consider the support of plaintiffs or their counsel in assessing an application under Rule 23(g), the Weber Plaintiffs respectfully disagree. Rule 23(g), the Advisory Committee Notes thereto (supra at 6), and the Manual § 21.272, all make clear that the court should consider “any” or “all” pertinent factors that may bear on counsel’s ability to fairly and adequately represent a class. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(g)(1)(B); Ex. F attached to the Levy Opp. Decl. (full text of the Manual, § 21.272). A plurality, if not the majority, of the plaintiffs involved in this action support the structure proposed by the Weber Plaintiffs. See supra note 3. Such support of the other plaintiffs and/or their experienced counsel, while not dispositive, certainly is relevant.²¹

III. CONCLUSION

Both Weber Plaintiffs’ counsel and the Howard Plaintiffs’ counsel are highly experienced counsel in similar litigation and fully capable of doing an excellent job in prosecuting this action on behalf of the Class. Plaintiff Lounsbury is also represented by fine attorneys, but those attorneys appear to lack the available resources and depth of experience of Weber Plaintiffs’ counsel. Other factors the Court should consider on this motion, including the efficiency of the leadership structure, the class action trial experience of the firms involved, the amount of work done in investigating and prosecuting the claims on behalf of the Class, the financial interest of the named plaintiffs in the outcome of the litigation, and the support of plaintiffs in the litigation, demonstrate that the Weber Plaintiffs’ motion for (i) consolidation of the above-captioned actions, (ii) appointment of the Weber Plaintiffs as Interim Co-Lead Plaintiffs on behalf of the proposed Class, and (iii) appointment of the firms of Wolf Popper and Hagens Berman as ²¹ The court in In re Payment Card Interchange Fee and Merchant Discount Antitrust Litig., MDL 05-1720, 2006 WL 2038650 at *2 (E.D.N.Y. Feb. 24, 2006), considered the support of other plaintiffs’ counsel as a deciding factor in appointing interim class counsel because the competing law firms seeking appointment were eminently qualified (as Weber and Howard Plaintiffs’ Counsel are here).

Interim Co-Lead Counsel, should be granted, and the competing motions of the Howard Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Lounsbury should be denied.
